There was one respect in which the wedding of the week was rather different. It was the omission of the over-enthusiastic "Bridal Chorus" which it must be admitted, much as the number is loved, it was a well-omission. The substitution of the ifel minut-like Swedish march which was the only one to have the other since their own wedding and by those who look forward to the march. Of course some wedding that a wedding would hardly be without the Lohengrin, but one was willing to run the risk. It was also the danger that some of in the procession would make a ke and try to dance to it (some did at the rehearsal), but this was cleverly surmounted by the of the occasion. Seriously, the wedding was a more beautiful Simplicity, and that of a beautiful type, characterized thing. The absence of all those white and green gave an unusual one which was most becoming to the guests in gorgeous apparel members of the party in stately white gowns. All the bunch of beauty and ce which surrounded the bride, it need for the visiting girl, Miss Al-Elis, to catch the bride's bouquet a day of the wedding. This sign that some at least of those in attendance at the big wedding here may lead to Denver before long to at the popular visiting girl in the capacity.

young people are rapidly fading into the school and college circle east or west and the summer vacation may be said to be at an end. Bessie Callow, a graduate of Rowell in last year's class, will leave for Vassar to enter college, her

Wood, for a year's musical work. Mrs. John S. Noble of Seattle is here for a visit and is with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Shealy at the Cummings apartments. Mrs. Noble was Mrs. U. J. Wenner of this city and of Ogden, and she has many local friends who are glad to welcome her back even for a brief visit. Mrs. Noble is the mother of Miss Blanche Wenner, at one time a teacher in the Salt Lake high school and now one of the faculty of a large high school in Seattle. Her son, George Wenner, is a rising young attorney of Seattle.

Miss Doris Edmunds entertained about eighty of the young girls yesterday afternoon at a delightful tea for the girl friends who are leaving shortly for schools and colleges in the east. Miss Marjorie Jacobs and Miss Romola King poured tea and coffee, Miss Ruth Hirth, Miss Dorothy Jacobs and Miss Dorothy Deolittle assisting. The home was lovely with its floral decorations and the bevy of beautiful young girls who came and went during the afternoon. The dining room was all in yellow and white, but through the other rooms the various autumn flowers were used.

Another attractive home has been added to those at the upper end of South Temple street, that of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Farnsworth, which is one of the most artistic constructed in that suburb of beautiful homes. It is in the Spanish style of architecture and is a splendid sample of that style. It is nearing completion and the family will probably be in it within a few weeks.

There was one gay stag dinner during the week at which for the fact that the bridegroom was pressed into service as a guest of honor, there would have been thirteen at table. The affair was engineered by two confirmed bachelors,

Scott Woodward and Dr. Ned Hewett. It was designed as a "send off" for Harry M. Johnson. Mr. Woodward's clerk, who is to enter the ranks of the benedict next Wednesday. The dinner itself, which took place Tuesday night at the Commercial club, was of the usual order, but it closed as a betting contest as to who was to be next. Doran, another one of the confirmed bachelors of the city. Some of the other were W. W. Byrne, O. T. Morris, H. G. Woebeke, J. H. McChrestal of Eureka, Harry Lambrecht, L. J. Hays, J. A. Stone, J. B. Since the departure of the officers of Port Douglas on their ten days' hike, there have been many social affairs of an informal nature, given by the ladies of the Garrison for groups of four or eight. Mrs. Philip G. Wrightson and Madame Wrightson entertained two tables very pleasantly at bridge last evening at their homes. Mrs. Perkins and her son, Fred Perkins, took their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Swaine, by automobile over the route to be covered by the regiment on the hike, last Wednesday, reaching the regiment in camp at Peter-son and taking dinner with them. Later they returned by way of Weber canyon, reaching home that night.

WEDDINGS AND ENGAGEMENTS.

News of the marriage of "Wally" Young and Mrs. Elizabeth Strong, which took place yesterday in San Francisco, was the occasion for much rejoicing on the part of the local friends of the bridegroom, and many messages of congratulation found their way to the coast. "Wally" Young is one of the Salt Lake newspaper men who have "made good" in San Francisco, and his dramatic work on the Chronicle is meeting with recognition everywhere. The bride is a most attractive young woman who has also won literary honors for herself. She is a relative of the Lloyd Osborne family, and is prominent in social as well as literary circles in San Francisco.

An interesting dispatch of the past week was that from London announcing the marriage of Miss Rose Lee McClellan, daughter of General John McClellan, retired, and Captain Charles W. Exton of the Twentieth, stationed at Fort Douglas. The engagement was announced in these columns some weeks ago, just prior to the departure of Captain Exton for a lengthy absence abroad. The bride and her father and sister have been spending the past few months in Germany, but came to London to meet Captain Exton, and the marriage took place at Marylebone church last Wednesday. The bride, who is to be added to the group of attractive young matrons at the post, is already quite well acquainted in the regiment, and she will be welcomed by a great many friends. Captain and Mrs. Exton will tour the British isles during the autumn months, the captain's leave extending into the winter.

The wedding of Elsie Mills McMillan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton McMillan, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Williams, to Edward John Hammond, member of a well-known San Francisco family, took place at St. Stevens Episcopal church at Hollywood, Cal., last Tuesday. It was a twilight wedding attended only by the immediate family. The ceremony was followed by an elaborate dinner in the palm room of the Hotel Hollywood. The table was decorated with baskets and garlands of pink roses. The bride and bridegroom are spending their honeymoon at the Hotel Virginia at Long Beach. They will make their home in southern California.

A beautiful wedding of Thursday evening was that of Miss Effie Hague and McCandless Moffett, which was solemnized at 7 o'clock by the Rev. Elmer I. Goshen, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. James Hague, on South West Temple street. In the presence of the relatives and close friends, the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Della Hague, and Thomas Crandall was best man. A large number of friends attended the reception following the ceremony. Assisting in receiving were Mrs. Hague, mother of the bride; Mrs. K. S. Moffett, mother of the bridegroom; Miss Margaret Hague, the bride's sister; the two young brothers of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hague. The bride wore a gown of white crepe de chine with trimmings of pearl embroidery, the veil caught with roses hung to the hem of her gown, and she carried a shower bouquet of tiny rosebuds, with streamers of amilax and ribbons. The bridesmaid's gown was of white marquisette over yellow. She carried an armful of yellow roses. The decorations throughout the home were beautiful and effective. The reception hall was in lavender asters and the parlor in white asters and smilax. Yellow was the color chosen for the dining room. The table was covered with a shiny lace cloth over yellow satin, a large basket of nasturtiums making the central decoration, with smaller baskets of the same flowers at each corner. The mantel and sideboard were effectively banked with sunflowers. This room was in charge of Miss Hottie Nelson, and a number of girl friends of the bride assisted in serving. In the hall the punch bowl was presided over by Miss Mary Moffett and Miss Winnie Webb. Music was furnished throughout the evening by the Wetzel orchestra. Mr. and Mrs. Moffett will be at home to their friends about October 1 in the Gibson apartments on West Sixth South street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Coles announce the engagement of their daughter, Annie M., to Sydney Lookhart. The date for the marriage is not yet set, but will be announced soon.

The marriage of Miss Katherine McClellan and D. M. Gallant took place yesterday morning at 11:30. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Reese at St. Paul's church and was a simple, quiet church affair, the young people leaving immediately for a short honeymoon trip.
